God's Call: Just World...Green Earth

Stewardship...and Faith...in Uncertain Times

We do live and worship in trying times, separated from the physical building of our church that we all love so much, and yet we are very busy being the church in ways that we had never envisioned before. Zoom this and Zoom that...and the occasional gathering while masked and socially distanced...has allowed us to serve our God and our fellow parishioners in so many new, challenging and exciting ways. We're still worshipping together on Sunday mornings, still working diligently and creatively in committees, still serving meals to veterans, still gathering for Bible studies and adult education conversations about topical and meaningful books, still enjoying fellowship and outings with our youth, still participating in deepening discussions at Men's Breakfast, still keeping our faith buoyed by Wednesday devotionals, and so much more! We truly are busy "being the church."

As we faithfully maintain our Rose City Park Presbyterian Church connections, we also realize that the financial needs of the church continue unabated, much the same as before this pandemic rearranged our lives. The building and grounds still need to be maintained, salaries need to be continued as before, the important community and congregational work of our committees should be supported, and we need to be faithful to the visions of the future that our saints before us had and then entrusted to us. We need to ensure that, when we are able to safely gather again in our beloved sanctuary, we have all the set pieces back in place to support all those activities as before.

In the next few weeks, the Stewardship Committee will be mailing letters and pledge cards to you for your prayerful consideration of how we choose to be the stewards of our individual gifts for the missions both within our church and beyond its walls. As Rev. Cynthia Campbell recently said, "Human beings are made for relationships; we are who we are because of our relationships with God and with one another. How we choose to respond to God's grace and how we choose to treat others shapes our lives. It's our Stewardship." Stewardship Committee
